

Indian, Son Captured After 12 Days

TISHOMINGO, Okla. (AP) — An Indian who eluded a man-hunt for 12 days was captured Monday only 100 yards from where the hunt began.

His young son was found about 50 yards farther into the woods. He was hungry and had badly scratched and cut feet, but a doctor said he apparently was all right.

The hunt for Lawrence Factor began Oct. 3, the day after his wife, Juanita, 31, was found strangled and buried in the forest half a mile from the Factor home. A thin leather belt had been forced down her throat, an autopsy revealed.

Factor, 43, was held in the Carter County Jail at Ardmore, 30 miles west, for arraignment today on a charge of murdering his wife.

Johnston County Sheriff Herman Ford and Wayne Warthen, criminal investigator for Dist. Atty. Burke Mordy, tracked Factor into the forest from the Factor home near Fillmore, 10 miles northeast of here.

The officers had "decided to start all over from scratch," Warthen said, since scores of searches on foot, on horseback, with bloodhounds and even an airplane and National Guard helicopters had been unable to find the man and his son.

Factor's Chickasaw Indian brothers and cousins joined the search at one point to use their tracking skills in the rugged country Factor knew intimately.

Despite losing one leg through a copperhead bite several years ago, Factor was known as a skilled woodsman who "knew the country like the back of his hand."

Factor did not resist and was not armed, Warthen said.

After his appearances in Kansas City, Humphrey flies across Missouri to St. Louis, where he has three speeches planned tonight and more appearances Wednesday.

In a speech prepared for a downtown rally here, Humphrey called on the people of Kansas City to help smoke Nixon out and "light the fire under him."

"Let's show him who's in charge—Madison Avenue or Main Street, U.S.A.," the Democratic nominee said.

In his Evansville speech, Humphrey plugged hard at the theme of prosperity under the Democrats, in an area where large numbers of blue-collar factory workers are considered leaning to Wallace.

A vote for Wallace, Humphrey told the crowd, "is a vote that would result in Mr. Nixon's election and a Republican recession."

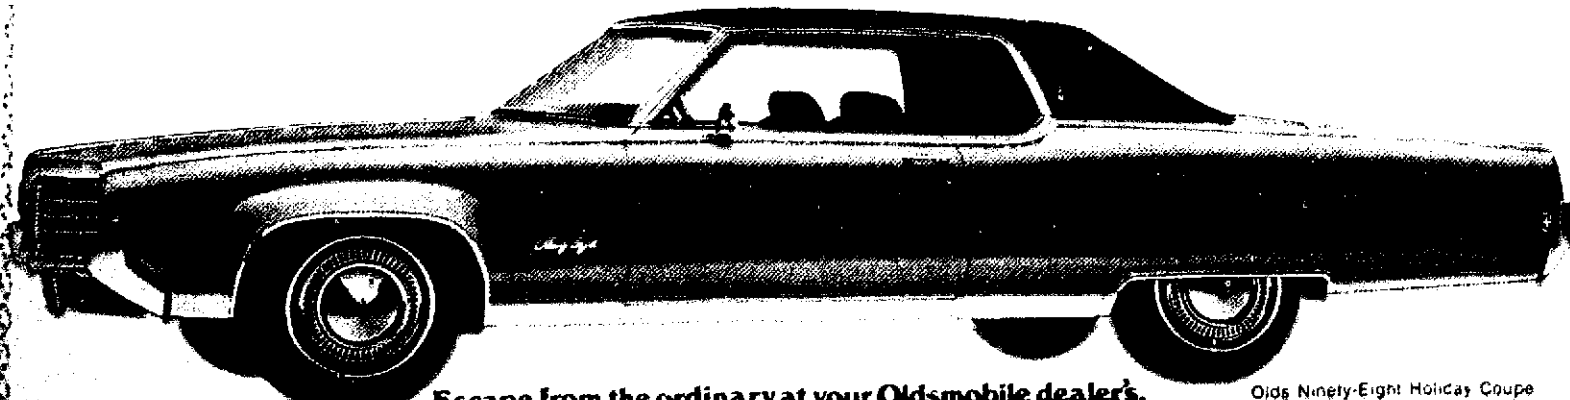

Before leaving Washington Monday, Humphrey told a news conference that "the greatest single threat of a Nixon victory is what he'll do to the supreme court."

LONDON (AP) — Sir Stanley Unwin, widely known British publisher, died Sunday at 83 years of age. His death was announced Monday by relatives.

DETROIT (AP) — Harvey C. Fruehauf, former president and chairman of Fruehauf Trailer Co., died Monday. He was 71. He was one of four sons of the late August Fruehauf, who founded the firm in 1916. Harvey's death apparently was caused by a heart attack.

CHICAGO (AP) — Leon Stolz, former chief editorial writer for the Chicago Tribune, died Monday. He was 75. Stolz was an editorial writer for the Tribune for nearly 38 years and headed that department for 21 years until his retirement in 1963.

Shooting at Prison Called Outrageous

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — State Rep. Jimmie McKissack of Star City today called Monday's shooting incident at Cummins Prison Farm "one of the most outrageous acts" of brutality he had heard.

McKissack said the shooting "was a very unfortunate incident."

He said Asst. Supt. Gary Haydis shot "into a bunch of prisoners huddled together like pot-smoking quail."

"We've heard of acts of brutality but this is one of the most outrageous acts I've heard of," he said. "They (the administration) said use of the strap was brutal but turned around and shot prisoners even in the eye. If this is not brutality, what is it?"

McKissack said he wondered whether a prisoner would rather be whipped under supervision or "shot and maybe blinded for life."

NAACP Fires Critical Attorney

NEW YORK (AP) — A 31-year-old white lawyer has been fired from his post as associate counsel to the NAACP because he wrote an article critical of the U.S. Supreme Court's civil-rights decisions.

At a meeting Monday, about 40 of the group's 60 national board members voted unanimously to dismiss the lawyer, Lewis M. Steel, and to repudiate his article "In the strongest possible terms."

In the article, "Nine Men in Black Who Think White," which appeared in the New York Times Magazine last Sunday, Steel accused the Supreme Court of having "struck down only the symbols of racism while condoning or overlooking the ingrained practices which have meant the survival of white supremacy in the United States, North and South."

stay. Western intelligence agencies estimate the total occupation force at 275,000, while Czechoslovak and Western sources in Prague say it is nearer 600,000.

Czechoslovak Premier Oldrich Cernik was reported to have negotiated the agreement into final form Monday with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

A report circulated Monday that Moscow was reserving the right to leave behind as many troops as it wished, refusing to fix this number by treaty. But one Czechoslovak informant said Moscow would be satisfied to leave as few as 50,000 troops if Prague grants all its demands for a return to the tight controls of Soviet-style communism.

When the troop withdrawal starts, the bulk of the troops from the other occupying powers—East Germany, Hungary, Poland and Bulgaria—are expected to pull out.

Lions Told About Social Security

At Monday's regular meeting of Hope Lions at Town & Country Pat Adcock of the Texarkana Social Security office was speaker. He was introduced by Kinard Young.

Mr. Adcock brought the group up to date on recent changes in the social security laws and provisions. Conditions for receiving aid have relaxed considerably in the case of disability before retirement age and for disabled widows who normally would not be enough for retirement.

Some 3,395 checks are mailed into Hempstead County each month representing $219,736. About half of this sum is to retired persons and half to young dependents and disabled persons.

In a question and answer period it was disclosed that the maximum income on which tax is paid has risen from $6,678 this year. He said that it was a good idea to check your personal income record every few years and that there is no charge for this service. Forms are available at any Social Security office.

Guests were Mrs. Ida Waggoner of McCaskill and Bob Strawbridge of Pine Bluff.

Declaration of 1965 which is implemented whenever a military takeover occurs in any hemisphere nation.

State Department spokesman Robert McCloskey made it clear that suspension of relations goes into effect automatically in cases such as the one in Panama.

He described the current relationship between the United States and Panama as being in an "intermediate" stage, pending clarification of the situation in the Central American country.

McCloskey said the United States could not "condone or permit the use of a safe haven in the Canal Zone as a political, military or governmental base of operations."

The reference was to Arias' statement from the U.S.-administered territory Sunday night that "it is necessary to take up arms against the little group of military traitors to the fatherland."

Other State Department sources said Arias had been advised of the U.S. position on his plea for resistance and added he will be expected to discontinue such activities.

They said a request by Arias for U.S. military assistance to his cause had been denied.

During this period of suspended relations, McCloskey said, it is routine for the United States to review its aid programs, to defer shipments and to restrict contacts. U.S. economic aid to Panama for fiscal 1968 was listed at $13.9 million dollars and military aid was put at $300,000.

Mrs. Johnson No Longer a Democrat

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Virginia Johnson, defeated in the Democratic gubernatorial runoff by Marion H. Crank, said Monday night she would spend her time campaigning for the presidential candidacy of George C. Wallace and will not support any of the Democratic nominees.

Mrs. Johnson said she offered Crank her support after she was defeated.

"We begged to stay in the (Democratic) party," she told about 200 persons at a $10-a-plate dinner for Wallace. "They kicked us out."

"I have just completed a detailed study of the new rules, and find that they not only required allegiance to the nominee (presidential nominee of the party), but that the rules, in effect, kick those of us out who aspired to public office, if we had the audacity to support openly the candidacy of George Wallace."

"I am no longer a Democrat," she said. "I will spend all my time campaigning for the presidential candidacy of George Wallace."

French to Try Out Big Plane

LONDON (AP) — The French prototype of the British-French Concorde supersonic airliner is expected to fly for the first time from Toulouse, France, late in December or early next year, Minister of Technology Anthony Wedgwood Benn told Parliament Monday.

The British version of the plane will make its maiden flight about six weeks after the French prototype, he said.

Negro Youths Loot Again in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second night in a row Monday Negro youths ranged through a section of Washington's Northeast, smashing windows and looting.

Police using tear gas blocked off the area along H Street between 8th and 15th and brought the brief disturbance under control without making any arrests.

Five policemen were injured and windows in a dozen stores smashed Sunday before police restored order by using tear gas.

Medical Costs You Can Deduct

Filing his income tax return, Johnny's father took a deduction for the cost of the boy's clarinet lessons. When the government challenged this item, the father explained:

"Johnny has a severe bite problem, and his orthodontist said playing the clarinet would be a great help. Therefore I consider these lessons a medical expense."

After a court test, this argument was upheld and the deduction accepted.

The case illustrates that "medical expenses," which are allowed (within limits) as a tax deduction, may take in a wide variety of costs. Deductions have been permitted for everything from the upkeep of a seeing eye dog to a wig prescribed for the mental health of a girl who had lost her hair.

But the expense must be closely related to a specific medical problem—not just vaguely "good for you."

Accordingly, deductions have been denied for diaper service, tooth paste, and bottled water. In each case, although there was a healthful aspect to the expenditure, no particular ailment was involved.

Nor can you deduct expenses in which the medical benefit is merely secondary to the non-medical benefit.

Thus a deduction was denied for a telephone which had been installed in a sick woman's home. True, the telephone did enable her to summon her doctor in an emergency. But it was also available for everyday household use.

What about travel? An ailing taxpayer who took a trip to Florida, just to perk up his morale, was held not entitled to deduct his expenses. The court ruled that the tax laws were not intended to subsidize vacations taken simply to make a taxpayer feel more cheerful.

On the other hand, a man was allowed to deduct the money he spent getting to and from meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous. Noting that he had joined the organization on the advice of a doctor, the court commented:

"Membership was necessary for the treatment of a disease."

Students to Meet Trustees

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Students will participate in meetings of Colgate University trustees, President Vincent M. Barnett Jr., announced Monday.

Barnett said, students and faculty members at the men's school will be invited to attend one open meeting of the board each year and the board will seat teacher and student representatives on all but one of its standing committees.

The reason, Barnett said, was recognition of a "pressing need for improved communications." Last spring, about 500 students and faculty members invaded the administration building to launch a sit-in protesting alleged fraternity discrimination. Nearly all regular classes were halted. The demonstration lasted nearly a week.

It is a trite statement but never more true . . . we are living in a changing world. In so many ways it is a grand and glorious one and sometimes it is a bit frightening. We are shedding our inhibitions, we are no longer expected to conform, we accept what we once thought unacceptable and most of us are trying in one way or another to . . . "get with it".

Life today is a tremendous challenge and one needs to become a new YOU to meet it. Fall is an excellent time to get in the swing of things with a brand new wardrobe. Let's give it some thought . . .

Don't hesitate any longer on that little black dress . . . so black isn't your best color . . . you can do an amazing amount of things to give it a different look and yet keep it basic. Like for instance scarves that tie, loop, drape, pin or fling over your shoulder . . . They are bright and gay, chiffon, prints, polka-dots, solid colors, all beautiful. You can choose pins that will change that little black dress from a luncheon date to the glitter and sparkle of evening. There is no end to the things you can do with a smart black dress and we have them in all price ranges.

If you don't own a jumper, get one TODAY! Absolutely the most comfortable versatile and youthful garment one can buy. Wear different blouses and sweaters and long-sleeved shells with it, you will love the freedom of movement it gives . . . $18.00 and up.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

MAN SHOULD BE BOSS?

Dear Helen: I have an opinion which may get me ranked down but I have to express it. I don't agree with this equality business between males and females nowadays.

In my book, the guy is first. He should give a girl respect and courtesy, but I believe a man is king, and should be treated like one. I'm kind of for the Japanese customs where a woman must bow and cater to the man.

Fellow females are probably saying, "The kid has got to be out of her tree." But I don't think I'm alone in my opinion. Do other girls know their places and enjoy it?—BEV

Dear Bev: You'd be surprised how many girls still cling to this romantic viewpoint—and how fast marriage changes them!

I'm not for total equality—a man needs the assurance that he is in charge. But if he is afraid of a mental equal, he's looking for a slave, and the woman who bows down will soon wish she had bowed out.—H

Dear Helen: My very close friend Sandy has a basically good habit that she overdoes to an annoying degree. She comes over to spend the day. Next afternoon a card arrives expressing her most heartfelt thanks for my hospitality. So okay, the thought is fine.

But when she spends the night, her mother brings over a gorgeous gift for my Mom. Afterwards, Sandy's note is so written to make me think I had saved her from a thousand demons. Recently she slept over again, and brought a real expensive gift. Her latest note was just gooey gushy with thanks.

I know she is right to be polite and grateful, but it gets embarrassing. I can't keep up with the gifts and the effusiveness, and if I tried, she'd just go one step farther. So instead of feeling good about her appreciation, she makes me feel guilty.

How can I get her to cool it without cooling our friendship?—TRIXIE

Dear Trixie: I've an idea. Sandy is pushed into excessive etiquette by a mother who swallows the book. She'll probably thank you for teaching her the art of casual courtesy—and if she goes overboard on her gratitude, you haven't been a good teacher! "Very close friends" are for helping each other, remember?—H

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Mitzl Gaynor came along Monday night with an NBC special that was an impressive showcase for her talents. The show was handsome, lighthearted and bouncy. She moved from country-style comedienne to femme fatale, from singer to dancer to sketch actress.

She danced numbers that ranged from figs in cotton dress and sunbonnet to production numbers in a swirl of chiffon and feathers. She sang funny songs and sad songs. She had an album of objectionable people in one sketch and they were headed by the telephone bore who starts, "Guess who this is?"

Most amusing comedy bits kidded old movies—Rosalind Russell in her 1940 lady-executive films and Doris Day in her innocent maiden period were fiercely ribbed.

The hour was essentially a one-woman show. The sets were lavish and so were some of Miss Gaynor's costumes. The guest stars—George Hamilton and Phil Harris—didn't have much to do.

The three astronauts of Apollo 7 may not be the best television cameramen around, but those live shots seen on the three television networks Monday morning must be the most exciting shots of the year.

Viewers, with a little help from the control center, were able to see the crew in their space capsule and could read Capt. Walter Schirra's little sign: "Keep those cards and letters coming in, folks." The shots taken through the capsule window of the earth were hard to make out. But the fact that such a transmission was possible is pretty thrilling.

"Cat Ballou," an ABC rerun of a fairly recent hit movie, was the most popular program broadcast during the first week in October, according to a Nielsen report issued Monday.

Other programs in the top 10 were CBS's "Gomer Pyle"; NBC's "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" and "Julia"; CBS's "Here's Lucy"; "Mayberry R.F.D." and "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour"; NBC's "Bonanza"; CBS's "Ed Sullivan Show," and NBC's "Dean Martin Show."

The first CBS Playhouse drama of the new season, J.P. Miller's original, "The People Next Door," will be broadcast tonight and is an earnest effort to explore the motives behind youth's rebellion, the use of mind-warping drugs, and the lack of understanding between the older and younger generations.

The drama, with an excellent cast including Lloyd Bridges and Kim Hunter, has a strong point of view and probably will be controversial. It is a tragedy and it places the blame directly. The program may, in fact, produce some angry letters from parents who do not see eye to eye with playwright Miller. It is certainly worth watching, if only for the fine performance of a young actress, Deborah Winters, as a teenager bent on self-destruction.

Eisenhower Celebrates 78th Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower celebrated his 78th birthday with a hospital-window serenade by the Army band and the wish for a "sweeping Republican victory on Nov. 5."

The five-star general waved from the open window of his third-floor hospital room Monday, flashed the V-for-victory sign and the Eisenhower grin for the bandmen and waved his tiny five-star flag.

It was his first public appearance since suffering his seventh heart attack in mid-August. Doctors chose the occasion to announce Eisenhower has begun walking unassisted.

Eisenhower, clad in a bathrobe, sat throughout the 15-minute salute from the Army band and chorus with his wife, Mamie, by his side.

The concert started with a trumpet fanfare and a chorus of "Happy Birthday To You." He snapped off a sharp salute when the band broke into the Army song, "The Caissons Go Rolling Along."

The crowd of about 200 outside the Walter Reed Army Hospital

cept rides only from long-distance truck drivers. He appears only during the early morning hours and near dusk.

Johnny Pot's task of planting is relatively easy. Marijuana seeds need merely to be scattered on fertile ground to grow. They need almost no cultivating and will flourish any place weeds grow.

It is said Johnny will accept a day's work of washing dishes or windows in order to get food money. He is well known and honored in the hippie areas of large cities.

He enthalls fellow hippies, recounting tales of spending nights in farm community jails on charges of vagrancy. He loves to tell that never once has he been relieved of his supply of marijuana seeds.

An agent said that this is understandable because the seeds are not easily recognized.

Johnny was reportedly spotted last week near Cleveland. It is believed that he hides in heavily wooded areas during daylight hours.

Johnny Appleseed, whose real name was John Chapman, traveled through Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana on horseback more than a century and a half ago, carrying apple seeds and a Bible in his saddlebags.

He scattered the seeds widely.

Badgers were once used for a cruel sport called "badger baiting." They were placed in barrels, then made to fight dogs that were pushed in to drag them into the open. This practice led to the expression "to badger," meaning to tease.

Hop B Boys Tale Win Over Prescott

By RALPH ROUTON
Star Sports Writer

Coming on strong after a slow start, the Hope "B" Lizards, led by the Prescott Jayvees, 6 in Prescott last night.

It was the locals' third win against two defeats, and next week the squad will be hosting the Stamps Yellowjackets in Hammons Stadium on Monday night.

Prescott scored first, after recovering a fumbled punt at the Hope nine. Going over from the one was Jerry Hubbard, and Prescott led 6-0 midway in the first quarter.

Early in the second period Hope jumped on a fumble at the Prescott 11, and two plays later QB Ronnie Massanelli bowled over from the one. James Rowe kicked the PAT, and Hope was ahead to stay, 7-6.

Soon afterward Dillon Wheelington connected with Simmons Smith on a halfback pass for 45 yards and Hope's second score. The point after was missed, and Hope led 13-6 at the half.

Opening the third quarter Prescott kicked to the "B" Lizards, and Randy Still ran it back 80 yards for his first TD. Once again Rowe converted, making it 20-6.

The final score of the game came in the last segment, when Massanelli sneaked over for his second six-pointer. He had passed to Wheelington for 45 yards to the one on the preceding play. The extra point was no good, and Hope had the 26-6 count in the bag.

With half the season now gone by, the Bobcats have a 2-3-1 mark to show for it, not up to previous expectations. You can throw that all out this week, though, as Hope meets the Texas of 4-A in the Camden Fairview Cardinals.

Homecoming it is for the Bobcats, and this should spring them up to a high-pitched emotional level. Yesterday Bobcat Coach Ronnie Higgins reflected optimism over the Bobcats' chances adding that we would have to play virtually an error-free ball game to win.

Although the Bobcats weren't impressive in the 20-6 win over Texarkana Washington, they did win and that was the main thing. Since it was a Saturday night game, the squad was still rather sore Monday afternoon and only went through a light workout in shorts. But they must really come up to great heights for Fairview, the No. 7 team in the state last week.

It sounds like a tough job, but Higgins and the Bobcats feel they can pull off the upset with a couple of breaks.

Admittedly, Fairview had never been tested all year while rolling to its 6-0 record, 2-0 in 4-A West. The Cards opened with a 20-6 win over Camden, and followed with a 34-0 crushing of Texarkana Washington. The following week it was 40-13 over Smackover, then a 34-0 walk over Warren. Two weeks ago Fairview had an easy time in beating Gurdon 27-7, and last Friday it was 44-0 over Camden Lincoln.

Quite impressive, you may say, and it is. In their two 4-A Western Division contests the Cardinals have a 78-0 advantage over the hapless opposition, and they are actually in total annihilation of the season point totals, leading 199 to 26 on the scoreboard.

That statistic by itself would be enough to scare an able opponent into submission, but not this week. To be sure, Fairview does not know the feeling of winning a tight game, and their Coach George Branch has said that his team has quite possibly already reached its peak and quite improving.

Anyway, the Bobcats haven't showed Fairview much in the games in which Hope has been scouted, of late playing a grinding all-run, no-pass game at Texarkana Washington. Seemingly all the Bobcats are in good health, and Ronny Brown should be ready for Friday's game after being injured last Saturday.

One factor where the Bobcats excelled was in the kicking game, where junior David Still had his best night punting of the year. In three kicks Still got off well-covered boots of 40, 60, and 45 yards, for a cool 48.0 average. Considering that the return yardage was cut to 14 yards in all, this is the type of game the Bobcats will have to show Fairview.

The Cardinals have a dandy punter in senior end Dicky Bush, and he averaged around 40 yards per kick last season. Handling Fairview's placements will be fullback and linebacker Jimmy Harris, one of the state's best junior athletes.

Elsewhere on the sports page will be news putting the Arkansas Razorbacks in the Top Ten of the Associated Press' Top Twenty poll. Last week, with a 3-0 mark, the Hogs were 13th, and this week their 35-19 win over Baylor moved them all the way up to 9th.

Frank Broyles probably realizes the fact that Arkansas is higher ranked than any of its final six opponents, even though such offensive powerhouses as Texas, Texas Tech, Texas A&M and even SMU still remain. You simply must forget records in the Southwest Conference, where the winner of late has been ragged but right.

Arkansas had the last of the overpowering machines, going all the way to 7-0 and 10-0 in 1965. Since then, SMU has won the SUC title (1966) with a 6-4 mark overall, and last year it was Texas A&M coming back from the 0-4 start to win at 6-4. This year the Ags are 1-3, but still not out of the race.

Should the Porker whip Texas, where the Longhorns will likely be favored from the strength of the 26-20 win over Oklahoma, it would give Arkansas the momentum to carry to the end, and that last battle with Texas Tech (now 3-0-1) just could decide that Cotton Bowl berth. The loser in that one would still go to the Orange or Sugar Bowl, though, with the extreme possibility of the Porkers and the Red Raiders being 8-0-1 and 9-0 going into the grand finale at Lubbock.

Don't count out the rest of the pack, though, but Arkansas could go all the way with a confidence test at Texas. A win would put the Hogs back in the middle of the fight, and it should really come up to great heights for Fairview, the No. 7 team in the state last week.

Almost forgot to mention the Bobkittens, who resume play this week with their Homecoming against Nashville this Thursday night. The Nashville junior squad is 4-1, while the Kittens are 3-1, and Nashville took a bitter 6-0 decision over Hope in Scrapper Stadium last season.

Comparative records give Hope the advantage, though it should be a real battle to the finish. After this home game the Kittens close out the home slate next week with Magnolia and then finish the year on Halloween night at Fairview.

A-State in Good Shape Physically

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State University, which opens its Southland Conference season Saturday night at Little Rock against Trinity, will be in good physical shape for the game.

ASU Coach Bennie Ellender said Monday the Indians had not suffered any injuries in Saturday's 17-7 victory over Southeastern Louisiana.

Ellender said fullback Dennis Zolper, who suffered a bruised thigh, was running practice Monday. The Indians will be going for their 200th school victory Saturday night.

Porks Move to 9th in Grid Poll

By SHEILA MORAN

Associated Press Sports Writer Southern California rose to the top of the pack, Purdue skidded to fifth and Ohio State, Penn State and Kansas are lodged in between in a reshuffling of The Associated Press' major college football poll.

Purdue, startled by Ohio State 13-0 last weekend, fell from first place and the unbeaten Trojans followed fleet-footed O. J. Simpson into the vacated top spot.

Southern Cal collected 23 of 41 first place votes and tallied 718 points to runner-up Ohio State's 672. But the Buckeyes gave the Trojans a run for the top spot with 12 first place votes. Penn State was third with 606 and Kansas fourth with 540. Purdue had 452 points but no first place votes.

Simpson raced for three touchdowns last Saturday as the Trojans edged stubborn Stanford 27-24.

The Buckeyes moved up from fourth place after they silenced the Bollermakers' one-two punch of quarterback Mike Phipps and halfback Leroy Keyes.

Penn State held on to third place with 606 after a 21-6 victory over UCLA, and Notre Dame, which beat Northwestern 27-7, dropped from fifth to sixth place with 348 points.

Kansas jumped from sixth place to fourth after beating Nebraska 23-13 in a key Big Eight contest. Nebraska slipped from ninth to 13th.

Florida remained in seventh place after tripping Tulane 24-3 and Tennessee climbed from 10th to eighth after dealing a 24-7 beating to Georgia Tech.

In reshuffled standings in the Second Ten, Arkansas rose from 14th to ninth after a 35-9 victory over Baylor, and Georgia moved from 17th to 10th after dropping Mississippi 21-7.

Southern Cal and Ohio State should have breathers next Saturday when the Trojans face Washington and the Buckeyes play Northwestern. Penn State is idle while Kansas meets Oklahoma in a Big Eight showdown.

Purdue plays Wake Forest, Notre Dame faces Illinois and Florida tangles with North Carolina. Tennessee meets Alabama, Arkansas is at Texas and Georgia is at home against Vanderbilt.

Matson Now Ponders About His Future

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Randy Matson, the new Olympic shot-put king, is a giant Texan who now has a choice of two sports careers—pro football or basketball.

He may take neither. "I want to go home and think about it a while," said the 6-foot-6½ inch, 260-pound hulk of a man from Pampa, Tex., who is just out of Texas A&M.

"I played football only one year, when I was a sophomore in high school. I have played more basketball. But I don't know what I want to do."

Matson has been drafted by the Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League and two pro basketball teams—Dallas in the ABA and Seattle in the NBA.

He won the Olympic shot-put gold medal Monday with a toss of 67 feet, 4½ inches, well below his world record of 71-5½.

"It's different in the Olympics," he explained. "I warmed up on one track, then cooled off before starting the final series of throws. With such a big field, there is 20 minutes between throws."

"You have to get off your best one on the first throw. You get awfully cold after that." Matson did it on his first.

Leaders Happy With Players Acquired

By MIKE RATHER

Associated Press Sports Writer MONTREAL (AP) — Buzzy Bavasi and John McHale, the National League's newest club presidents, are much happier with the players they acquired in this year's expansion draft than they would have been with the players they gave away eight years ago in the original expansion draft.

"I'm not satisfied with the price we paid," said Bavasi, who has moved on from Los Angeles' general manager to president of the new San Diego Padres. "But the first seven players we received are probably better than the players we gave away in the last draft."

"We're paying three times as much for the players," said McHale, who was then Milwaukee's general manager and is now president of the new Montreal Expos.

"But we're getting a younger established-type player who has more playing time remaining." Each of the new clubs paid $10 million for entry into the National League, or $333,333.33 for each of the 60 players grabbed off Monday in the first half of the two-day, two-country sessions that stocked baseball's four newest teams.

The American League stocked its Seattle and Kansas City clubs in Boston today after Bavasi and McHale, along with their staffs, spent 11 hours and 20 minutes before winding up their part of the show in Montreal.

Both leagues operated under the same ground rules with each existing club protecting just 15 players in its entire organization, a more liberal formula than in previous drafts where the established teams protected 25 of the players on their 40-man rosters.

McHale's Montreal club went heavy for the veteran player while Bavasi's San Diego club looked to youth as they selected three players from each of the 10 existing clubs.

It was not until their 19th pick — outfielder Tony Gonzalez of Philadelphia — that the Padres took their only player over 30 years old. By that time, the Expos had taken six.

The Expos raided the Pittsburgh Pirates for three of the over-30 players, grabbing outfielder Manny Mota, first baseman Donn Clendenon and infielder Maury Wills, a former Most Valuable Player award-winner, among their first dozen picks.

The Padres, meanwhile, went for only two players closing in on 30. St. Louis pitcher Dave Giusti and shortstop Zoilo Versalles of Los Angeles, like Wills a former MVP winner. But they also dipped into the minors for a pair of 19-year-olds, catcher Fred Kendall from Cincinnati and outfielder Jerry Morales from the New York Mets.

Sonny Liston Keeps Title Hopes Alive

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Former world heavyweight champion Sonny Liston of Las Vegas, Nev., kept his title hopes alive Monday night with a third-round knockout over Sonny Moore of Dallas.

Liston, 36, who weighed 221½, dropped his lighter opponent once in the second round for a mandatory eight count with an overhand right to the head, after Moore, 205½, fought Liston on equal terms in the opening round.

Liston, wasting little time, dropped Moore with a crushing left hook to the temple 30 seconds into the third.

The No. 4 ranked Liston resumed his attack after the count with stinging overhand right and left hooks to the body to drop Moore for another eight count.

The knockout came at the 2:12 mark, to give Liston his seventh straight victory since he lost his title to Cassius Clay.

Matson and Hines Get Gold Medals

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Sports Writer MEXICO CITY (AP) — These could become the Red, White and Blue Olympics.

Lean Jim Hines and massive Randy Matson—both pro football prospects—rang up gold medals for the United States Monday while the Russians, obviously were disappointed over their showing.

Hines, a 6-foot, 175-pound whippet, matched his own pending world record with a 9.9 clocking in the 100 meters, with teammate Charlie Greene, a former Nebraska star, third. Lenny Miller of Jamaica was second.

Matson, a 6-foot-6, 260-pound giant, world record holder in the shot put but slump-ridden lately, won his specialty with a toss of 67 feet, 4½ inches, well off his amazing world record of 71-5½.

George Wood, Los Angeles, made it 1-2 for the United States with a 66 feet, ¼ inch effort, while Edward Guschln of Russia was third at 65-11.

That gave the United States the early gold medal lead, with two, plus a silver and a bronze. Russia leads in over-all medals with five, three of them bronze and only one gold.

The gold came from Vladimir Golubnichy in the 20-kilometer walk, timed in one hour, 33:58.4.

The Russians were expected to finish 1-2 in the event, but Jose Pedraza of Mexico took the silver, and Russia's Nikolay Smaga had to be content with the bronze.

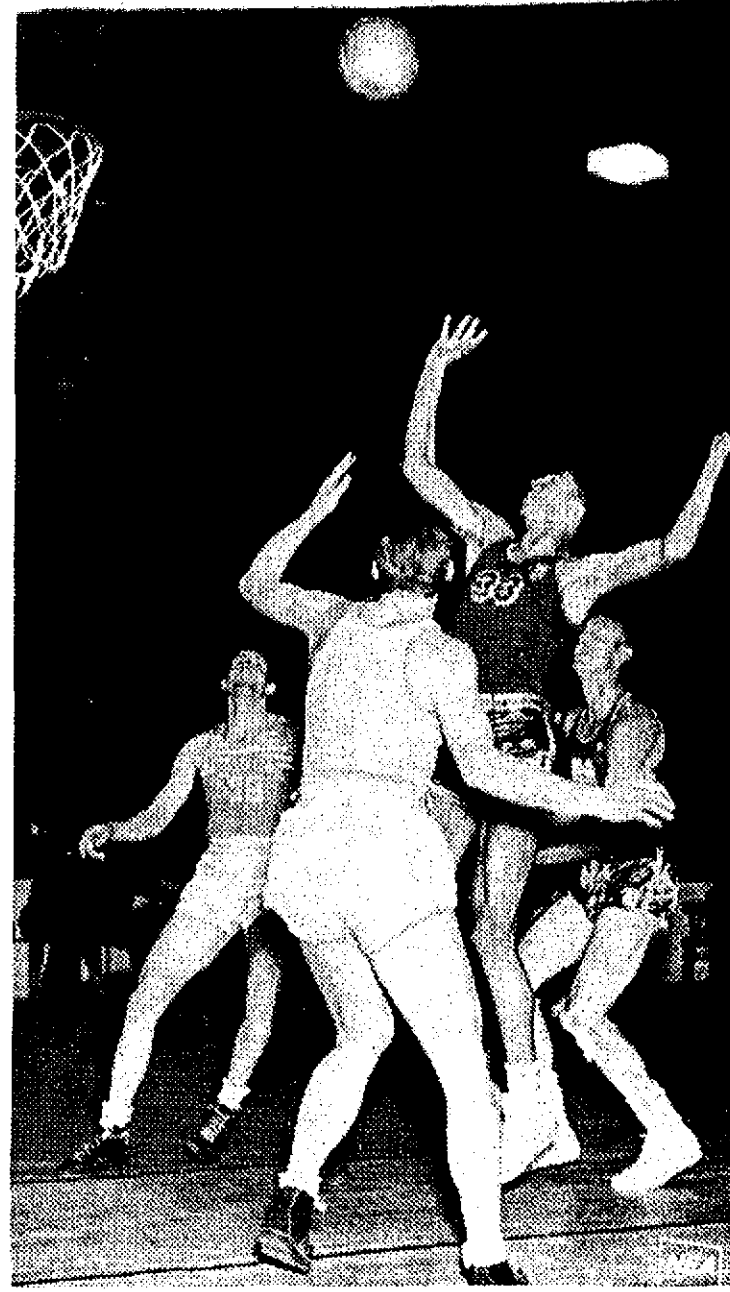

Rudy Halyza of Riverside, Calif., was a surprising fourth in an event in which the United States never has done well.

The Russians also suffered disappointments in the women's broad jump and women's javelin.

They had the world record holder in the long jump, Tatjana Talysheva, but the best she could do was third. Viorica Viscoleanu of Rumania won it with a world mark of 22-4½. Sheila Sherwood of England was second at 21-11 and Miss Talysheva had 21-10½.

In the women's javelin, Lidia Tsimozh of Russia was among the favorites—but failed to crack the first eight. Gaunt Angela Nemeth of Hungary won it at 198 feet, ½ inch, followed by Miheela Penes of Rumania and Eva Janko of Austria.

The largest gold mine in the world is located in Lead, S.D., according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

DON BARKSDALE (33) scored against Uruguay in a basketball game in the 1948 Olympics. The only Negro on the U.S. team, and the first black man to play on an American Olympic basketball squad, Barksdale suffered racial prejudice while the team practiced in America and escaped it only when the team went abroad.

New Teams Are Hunting for Talent

By DAVE O'HARA

Associated Press Sports Writer BOSTON (AP) — The Kansas City Royals and the Seattle Pilots, getting ready for a 1969 entry into the American League pennant race, went talent-hunting at a cost of $5.125 million each today in a generous expansion draft.

"There is a tremendous amount of good young players on the unprotected lists," Seattle General Manager Marvin Milkes said on the eve of the Pilots' and Royals' raids on the league's 10 established clubs.

"This draft will be just the start of things," Milkes predicted. "We'll make deals later."

Seattle won the toss of a coin flipped by AL President Joe Cronin. However, the Pilots exercised an option and gave Kansas City the first draft choice in order to take the second and third selections.

The 10 established clubs are permitted to protect only 15 players each in their farm-lung organizations. That left plenty of solid players, as well as promising youngsters, available for Kansas City and Seattle.

Although they will pay $175,000 for each of 30 players drafted, the two new entries in the American League should fare much better than expansion clubs in past years.

"There is plenty of talent available," Harry Dalton of the Baltimore Orioles said. "This is going to hurt all of us. Anytime an organization loses six players in one day it has to hurt."

"I don't want to even think about it, but I guess I have to," said Manager Mayo Smith of the Detroit Tigers. "Everyone is going to lose good ballplayers."

7 Returning Lettermen to Hog Cagers

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks, with seven lettermen returning from a team that finished 7-7 in the Southwest Conference, open basketball practice today. Duddy Waller's starting lineup from 1967 returns intact—Gary Stephens of North Little Rock, Benton Cone of Wilmet, Ricky Tanneberger of Little Rock, James Eldridge of Green Forest and Robert McKenzie of White Hall.

Two other lettermen, Mack McAllister of Jonesboro and Jackie Kimbrell of Turrell, are also back.

The other members of the team are squadman Danny Keeter of Mountain Home, sophomores Donnie Watts of Harrison, Thomas Johnson of Menifee, Larry Grislim of White Hall, Fred Mooney of Jonesboro and Redshirts Johnny Crawford of Little Rock, George Stasick of Hot Springs and Vernie Harris of Mountain Home.

Court Will Hear Death Row Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to hear a death-row appeal that could result in further limits on capital punishment.

The court, which ruled last term that jurors cannot be excluded from capital punishment cases for opposing the death penalty in principle, agreed Monday to hear the appeal of a man sentenced to die for armed robbery.

The convict, Edward Boykin Jr., pleaded guilty to holding up five Mobile Ala., store. He contends his death sentence is "cruel and unusual punishment" in violation of the Constitution's 5th Amendment.

The court turned down another attack on the death penalty. That one was lodged by Thomas A. Alvarez, facing death for the murder of a Lincoln, Neb., housewife.

This suggests the court may go part of the way limiting the death penalty.

Among a score of cases accepted for argument was the first direct attack on the power of military courts to try servicemen for crimes committed off-post and off-duty.

James F. O'Callahan, a 32-year-old ex-Army sergeant convicted of raping a 14-year-old girl in a Hawaiian hotel, persuaded the court to take the test case.

O'Callahan, serving 10 years at hard labor at Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison, claims the right of other citizens—to have his case submitted to a grand jury and be tried by civilians.

The Justice Department had tried to steer the court off, arguing that soldiers and sailors remain under military jurisdiction when they are off duty.

In another case, the justices—except William O. Douglas—would have nothing to do with the suggestion the way a boy wears his hair is his business and not that of school officials.

Three Dallas youths, barred from a high school because of their Beatles look, tried to elevate long hair to a constitutional right.

Eight of the nine justices turned the youths down flat. Douglas wrote a dissenting opinion in which he said: "I suppose that a nation bent on turning out robots might insist that every mile have a crewcut and every female wear pigtails."

"But the ideas of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness," expressed in the Declaration of Independence, later found specific definition in the Constitution itself, including of course, freedom of expression and a wide zone of privacy.

"I had supposed those guarantees permitted idiosyncracies to flourish, especially when they concern the image of one's personality and his philosophy toward government and his fellow men."

In another action, the Court temporarily stayed printing of Alabama general election ballots pending a hearing Friday on eligibility of candidates of the national Democratic party of Alabama.

Alabama Secretary of State Mabel Amos and 87 county probate judges are the defendants. The party's petition says Mrs. Amos, identified as a presidential elector for George C. Wallace, announced she intended to certify only two of the 20 party candidates for state and federal offices on the ballot next month.

The party challenges state election law as discriminatory against minority political parties and "racially motivated."

Fastest Man May Quit, Play Football

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Jim Hines, the new world's fastest human and the Olympic gold medalist in the 100 meters, may join predecessor Bobby Hayes in professional football before the year is out.

"I am retiring from amateur track competition after Saturday's relay (the 400-meter relay)," the 22-year-old comet from Oakland, Calif., said after tying the pending world 100-meter record Monday at Olympic Stadium.

"I have been drafted by the Miami Dolphins of the American Football League. I haven't signed with them yet but I expect to talk to them next week. You know what that means."

Broyles in Praise of His Players

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles said Monday that the Razorbacks gave "110 per cent effort" in Saturday's 35-19 victory over Baylor.

"If we hadn't had this effort, we would have lost that game," heroes always have been Jesse Owens, winner of four gold medals in the 1936 Games at Berlin and Hayes, 100-meter winner four years ago in Tokyo.

Hayes parlayed his speed into a contract with the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League and now is one of the game's brightest stars.

Like Hayes, Hines would like to play flanker back. He hasn't played football since he was in high school but he is certain he can make the grade.

If the two leagues still were separate and warring for talent, Hines, with his newly gained appeal, might have been able to demand $500,000. As it is, he is expected to settle for around $125,000 for three years.

Hines, a powerfully built, 175-pound 6-footer, came off the starting blocks like a rocket and outsped his two main rivals, Lennox Miller of Jamaica and Charlie Green of Seattle, in winning the race in 9.9 seconds. This tied the pending world record which he and Greene share.

HOPE (ARK) STAR, Printed by Offset

he said. Broyles singled out defensive halfback Gary Adams and safety Terry Stewart for their play against Baylor.

Broyles said Adams is "playing great ball."

"If we ever had an All-American, it's him," Broyles said. "He's playing All-American ball."

Adams intercepted a pass to set up Arkansas' first touchdown and then returned a punt 79 yards for a touchdown that put Arkansas ahead 21-0.

"The effort Terry Stewart gave on Gary Adams' punt return was the greatest effort on one play I've ever seen," Broyles said.

Stewart made a block around the Arkansas 30, raced downfield and knocked down the final Baylor defender around the Bears' 20.

Broyles said tailback David Dickey of Palestine, Tex., guard Jim Barnes of Pine Bluff and Adams, a senior from Piggott, would be the cocaptains for Saturday's game with Texas at Austin, Tex.

Observers Examine Ghost Town

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE
IKOT EKPEKE, Biafra (AP) — Screaming vultures circled overhead while seven members of a foreign observer team looked at corpses of Biafran soldiers in this ghost town 25 miles from the last secessionist stronghold at Umuahia.

The Nigerian army command claimed the Biafrans were driven out of the town early this month after a short occupation. But the fighting is far from over and the observers heard an occasional shot during their five-hour stay.

"We hold Ikot Ekpeke during the day," said a Nigerian officer. "We concede it to the rebels during the night."

The observers— from the United Nations, the Organization of African Unity, Britain, Canada, Poland and Sweden— were invited by the Nigerian government to investigate charges of genocide by Biafra and to watch the conduct of federal troops.

Thousands of refugees, mainly old women, crippled men and reed-thin children are swarming into the federal areas after months of hiding in the dense rain forests. Some observers, who did not wish to be identified, said the refugees were dying at a rate of 20 per 1,000.

The observers saw hundreds of children too weak to stand. Many were in advanced stages of malnutrition. One young boy lay dying on the roadside. Others with emaciated bodies barely could crawl.

The Nigerian 3rd Commando Division and the Red Cross are caring for about 250,000 persons in the area. The Red Cross estimated another 200,000 are not being cared for because they are not regarded officially as refugees.

In forward areas there are another 130,000 civilians housed in churches and makeshift camps. Observers said the Nigerian army has a serious problem of feeding and protecting them. They said the refugees fear Biafran infiltrators who may kill them for seeking safety behind federal lines.

The Red Cross team, headed by Theodore Sachan of Kiel, Germany, is hampered by lack of medical facilities. It was providing refugees with one meal daily, and one member said children's deaths had declined but still remained high.

In Port Harcourt, before observers drove to Ikot Ekpeke, the Nigerian army displayed officers and men in fresh clean shirts who they said were Biafrans.

"Show them how happy you are," ordered Col. Ayo Ariyo, sector commander.

The men started singing "Oh Lord, Show Us the Way."

One soldier, who surrendered, Israel Osador, said his comrades were weary of war but a hard core was determined to fight to the death.

He said retreating Biafrans told civilians that federal troops would slaughter them. He said the Biafrans were herding the civilians toward Umuahia, which is the target of the final Nigerian push.

tive antibody level ever drop?
A—Not appreciably.

Q—I've had pellagra for several years. I've heard that alcohol is the cause, but I do not drink. I have taken vitamins for years. What could cause my pellagra? Is niacin the same as niacinamide?

A—Pellagra is caused by a deficiency of niacin and is commonly seen in persons whose diet is limited to corn bread and salt pork. Heavy drinking does not cause this disease directly but is often associated with poor nutritional habits. In a few persons—you may be one—the disease appears to be associated with stomach (not duodenal) ulcers, chronic diarrhea and other diseases that interfere with the normal functioning of the digestive tract.

Niacin and niacinamide are closely related components of the vitamin B complex. Both are used to treat pellagra and, when prompt relief is not obtained with vitamin tablets, niacin should be given by vein.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Bottling fireflies or lightning bugs to see in the dark is a childhood summer pastime of long standing.
The fireflies' multicolored cold light, besides being one of nature's most beautiful phenomena, serves the insects as a means of attracting a mate in the dark. The World Almanac notes that when the substance luciferin oxidizes with the enzyme luciferase, light is produced.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG Rh Factor Poses Risks In Later Pregnancies

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—I am Rh-negative. How important is it for me to marry an Rh-negative man?
If my husband is Rh-positive,
what problems might I encounter with a first, second or third child? Is there a greater chance of having a miscarriage if my husband is Rhpositive?

A—If you marry an Rhpositive man, you should anticipate no trouble with the first baby. The risk of erythroblastosis (blood destruction) in the baby increases with each subsequent pregnancy but, when the risk is recognized, preventive measures can be taken.

The best procedure is to have an injection of a blocking antibody (RhoGAM) within 72 hours after a miscarriage or the delivery of an Rh-positive baby. Even if this is not done, there are ways to protect your next baby, such as giving him an exchange transfusion shortly after he is born.

In view of these facts, I would advise you to find a loving husband who will make a good father and not place too much stress on his Rh status.

Q—I am engaged. My fiancée has type A Rh-positive blood and I have type B Rh-positive blood. If I become pregnant, will this cause any problems?

A—Types A and B have to do with your ability to act as donor or recipient of a blood transfusion. Since you are both Rh-positive, there will be no problem for your babies.

Q—In an already Rh sensitized mother, will the destruction of the fetus be prevented by the injection of RhoGAM?

A—The injection of RhoGAM prevents the formation of an antibody to the Rh factor in the mother's blood. This antibody, if it were to form, would destroy the Rh-positive red blood cells of the fetus. The injection of RhoGAM prevents this from happening.

Q—If I am already Rh sensitized, will the injection of tion of my fetus?

Weak Two Bid Is Handy Tool

The weak two bid is in almost universal use in tournament play. The American Contract Bridge League has ruled that the weak two bid may only be made with a high card holding of not less than six or more than 12 points.
Most users reduce these limits to a maximum of 11 and minimum of eight and, in addition, only bid it with a good six-card suit.

There is a further restriction. They use the two-club opening as their only forcing bid. In any event, Count Wright's two-diamond call is a typical weak two. He has nine high-card points and a good six-card suit.

This hand was played at the Mid-South Regional in Shreveport and Jim Clinton, who sat North, was tempted to go to two spades. He and Count were playing that the only forcing response to a weak two bid would be two no-trump and Jim could expect to play two spades. Duplicate players always try, if possible, to get into majors or no-trump because in duplicate 10 or 20 points can mean a difference between a good score and a bad one.

He didn't fall for this temptation, and passed quietly.
While plus 110 would be better than plus 90, a two-spade call was too likely to lead to a minus score.

West opened the six of hearts. Count let this run around to his nine. Then he cashed dummy's ace of diamonds, returned to his own hand with the ace of spades, played his king and nine of diamonds and wound up with nine tricks for a nice, comfortable plus.

It was, in fact, more than comfortable. The game was team of four and at the other table North chose to respond with two spades. He played it there and alert defense managed to set him two tricks at this contract.

School Man Bucks Vote Getting Champ

By JERRY RANKIN
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Schoolmaster, Republican Max Rafferty, and Democrat Alan Cranston, one of the state's champion vote-getters, are locked in a bruising U.S. Senate campaign of sharply contrasting styles and beliefs.

The two men hold opposite viewpoints on almost all public issues.

Cranston regards Rafferty as a right wing extremist.

Charges of lies, smears and near treason have been traded. Each professes amazement at the idea that his foe would ever sit in the halls of Congress.

Rafferty, 51-year-old state Superintendent of public instruction, upset incumbent Thomas H. Kuchel—assistant Republican leader in the Senate—by 69,000 votes of more than two million in the June primary.

Cranston scored an easy primary victory, unlike 1964 when he was beaten out by the last minute challenge of Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary. Cranston had rolled up huge margins in being elected state controller in 1958 and 1962, but was ousted in the Ronald Reagan-led Republican statewide sweep in 1966.

Debate before California's nearly eight million voters keyed on two basic issues—peace in Vietnam and on American streets.

Cranston's position on Vietnam: "I urge an immediate, unconditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam. We should find out if, when we stop the bombing, they will talk peace. If they will not talk peace no matter what we do . . . then we must seek to de-Americanize the war. We should tell the government of South Vietnam 'You can't depend on us forever.' I do not favor picking up and walking out and abandoning South Vietnam."

Rafferty's Vietnam position: "We are all desirous of an honorable settlement of the war at the earliest possible date—but this settlement must be honorable and not an unconditional halt in the bombing which could cause the loss of thousands of American lives." He says Cranston's call for a bombing halt approaches "a policy not only of national suicide but of national treason."

Both men favor "law and order," although Cranston calls it "law and justice." Rafferty talks about "some surly slob who blasts his neighbor wide open with a shotgun" and urges quick, stiff punishment.

"Retribution is what I'm talking about, friends, and ever since we crawled out of caves, retribution has followed wrongdoing as the night does the day."

Cranston emphasizes better pay, equipment and training for policemen, federally financed but locally controlled.

Rafferty carries the usual middle-aged paunch on his six-foot frame, topped by a receding hairline. Cranston, at 54, is trim around the middle, stands six-foot-one and is nearly bald. A former quarter-miler at Stanford, he jogs, dashes and swims through the various stops along the campaign trail.

Rafferty has won solidly in two races for the nonpartisan schools chief job, and has developed a nationwide reputation as a Fourth-of-July style orator

Not Surprised, Says Crank of Shootings

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Democratic gubernatorial nominee Marion H. Crank said Monday that the wounding of 24 inmates at Cummins Prison Farm backed up his statement that prison reform, "as related to the Rockefeller administration, is a phrase instead of a reality."

"Although I am shocked at what took place at Cummins Prison today (Monday), it really doesn't surprise me very much," he said. "What happened today lends a lot of credence to what I have been saying."

"It is my understanding that the person responsible for the first shot and for the order to other guards to shoot is a man by the name of Gary Haydis," Crank said. "Haydis is an import from the state of California, and supposedly expert penologist who was brought in by our now infamous Thomas O. Murton."

"One way or another, the Rockefeller administration is going to realize that our people want Arkansas to solve Arkansas' problems," Crank said.

"Now perhaps the people of Arkansas will know that I have not been criticizing Winthrop Rockefeller's handling of prison affairs on purely political motives," Crank said. "I don't call it prison reform when confined prisoners are immediately shot-gunned because they refuse to obey a command to go to work."

Coal Miners to Get $7 Day Pay Hikes

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's soft coal miners have a $7-a-day pay raise in a new contract that also provides Christmas bonuses for men who shun wildcat strikes.

"This is the best contract ever negotiated," said W. A. "Tony" Boyle, president of the United Mine Workers Union, at contract signing ceremonies Monday.

"I hope this is a sign of healthy new relations between coal miners and their employers," said George Judy, who signed for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association. He called the contract "excellent."

Judy said he can't tell whether the wage increases—which raise base pay to $34.25 a day in the contract's third year—will force coal price boosts.

But he said increased labor costs require that miners stop wildcat strikes over local issues.

Such strikes in the 30 months of the old contract caused the loss of 427,928 man-shifts of production, he said.

"The industry can't stand these expensive, contract-violating, local strikes, nor can the miners," Judy said.

"The cost of our fuel will make it tough enough to keep our share of the highly competitive fuel market," he added.

Judy said the new contract, first major rewrite of the basic soft coal agreement in 18 years, provides adequate machinery for peacefully settling local disputes.

The contract provides a $120 Christmas bonus for miners who have not engaged in any wildcat strikes during the year.

The new contract covers some 80,000 miners working for bituminous association companies in 22 states, plus another 10,000 employed by four other firms that authorized Judy to sign for them. Provisions of the pattern-setting agreement will be extended to another 40,000 men employed by other companies outside the industry association, Boyle said.

More than 40,000 miners started striking Sept. 30 in what the union said was an unauthorized walkout. Most of the rest of the miners in the industry joined the strike when the old contract officially expired Oct. 8.

The contract provides an immediate $3-a-day wage increase retroactive to Oct. 1, another $2 a day next Oct. 1 and a final $2 on Oct. 1, 1970.

Wages had been $27.25 a day for most miners, $30 for top men.

Charges Foe Paid $40,000 to Relatives

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Ed Allison, the Republican candidate for state Land Commissioner, says relatives of his Democratic opponent, Sam Jones, have been paid more than $40,000 in state funds during Jones' terms in office.

Allison said he had obtained the information by checking legislative audit records from 1957 through the 1966 fiscal year. He said the 1967 figures were taken from records of the state Administration Department.

"This is abusive and unethical," Allison said. "I believe the people of Arkansas will no longer tolerate family-payroll padding in the state Land Department."

Allison said, in a prepared statement, he would work to enact legislation which would prohibit the practice.

Allison said that Jones had his wife on the state payroll for several years "under her former name, Helen B. Monroe."

Allison said in the statement that in 1957 Louise Jones was paid $1,050; in 1958, she got $900; $900 again in 1959; $900 in 1960; $600 in 1961; $900 in 1962; $900 in 1964; $800 in 1966; $1,100 in 1967; $750 in 1968.

Allison said Helen B. Monroe received $1,762 in 1958; $600 in source, and being in a closed environment, they probably have gotten it from each other," he said.

To get additional rest, Schlra requested—and received—permission from the ground to add 1.5 hours to their scheduled sleep period to make 7 hours for each crewman.

1959; $2,700 in 1960; $3,300 in 1961; $3,675 in 1962; $3,300 in 1964; $4,800 in 1966 with $600 going to Helen K. Monroe; $4,800 to Helen B. Jones (Monroe) in 1967 with $600 to Helen K. Monroe; $5,196 to Helen B. Jones (Monroe) in 1968 with $300 going to Helen K. Monroe; and $1,515 to Helen B. Jones through Oct. 15 of this year; $300 to Judy Jones in 1962; $600 to her in 1966.

Allison said Louise Jones is a sister of the incumbent, Judy Jones is his daughter and Helen K. Monroe is his step-daughter.

warning shot, and they did not move. So he fired into them. Then they moved."

Two of the inmates who were wounded told newsmen that no warning shot was fired.

Urban, who said he did not witness the shooting, reported that the inmates were wounded in the head, back and arms.

"Those who were wounded in the head were sitting down," he said. "The others were standing."

He said 10 of the leaders of the strike had been transferred to Tucker Prison Farm to be put in isolation, and another inmate was placed in isolation at Cummins.

Urban said the prisoners wanted to outline about 10 grievances "but only two or three came out in the discussions."

"Let me make one thing clear," he said. "No inmate is going to tell Mr. Haydis or I or the prison board that we should run the prison this way or that."

About 1,100 convicts are currently confined at the 21,000-acre prison farm 60 miles southeast of Little Rock.

"They asked that a civilian doctor, not a prison employee, be the person who gives them clearance when they want to go on sick call," Urban said. "Mr. Haydis was empowered to act in my behalf on matters where he felt competent and he granted this demand immediately."

"They also demanded the dismissal of some inmate supervisors," Urban said. "We refused to grant this one without an investigation and they refused to work."

The shooting was the latest in a series of incidents in the Arkansas prison system, which has been criticized by its opponents as brutal and outmoded.

Thomas O. Murton, Urban's predecessor, theorized a year ago that three skeletons found in shallow graves on prison property were the remains of inmates secretly murdered and buried.

The State Police reported, following an investigation, that Murton's theory was improbable and that the skeletons were probably the remains of inmates whose bodies had not been claimed by relatives.

A state police report issued early in 1967, before Murton's term, revealed the use of various torture devices at Tucker Prison Farm.

Belated Note
on Newsboy Week, U.S.A.

I was a check on my desk for signature yesterday that reminded me I forgot something last week.

The check was to refund a newsboy's performance bond as his tour of duty with us was finished. And this reminded me that last week was National Newsboy Week - and The Star neglected to say anything about it. The critics are right when they say a newspaper is so busy promoting everyone else's business it forgets to promote its own.

And there is no more important part of our business than the carriers who deliver the paper to your door - or shall we say front yard, or perhaps the roof, if the boy's journey is hurried by rain. Still he's your boy - and ours - and last week was set aside to do him honor, and I forgot.

But getting back to yesterday cash-out check for a bond - there was something wrong about the calculation, and I caught it. It was for the full amount of the bond, but it made no mention of interest. I sent it back to the department for correction, and when it came up the second time our departing newsboy had picked up interest in the amount of $4.35. Our system goes like this - It's been in effect ever since we inaugurated the "Little Merchant" carrier plan in 1931.

Parents aren't permitted to underwrite a newsboy's performance bond. Instead, the boy puts in 50c a week until his bond protecting collections and delivery reaches the required $30. Then it begins earning 6 per cent interest - 15c a month. Many boys have earned $2 or $3 interest, but this performance represented a record - $4.35.

If you don't think the experience of having money work for you instead of against you is an enlightening adventure in American free enterprise then you simply haven't talked to a newsboy who has been on the receiving end of an interest check.

Of course the parents hear about this interest business. Several years after the 1929-33 depression was over one of our boys propositioned me: "Can I deposit more than the bond money and collect 6 per cent on the extra too?"

I sensed a man's mind behind a boy's voice, and asked: "Did your father put you up to this?" His grin was my answer. But we were dealing with a boy's world; adults had to keep out - and the offer to add another creditor to the publishing business was declined.

Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, our regional trade group, carries this bulletin about newsboys:

The Rochester (N.Y.) Times Union recently published a testimonial letter from Judge Culver K. Barr, City Court of Rochester, along with his picture, in a carrier recruitment advertisement. The letter, addressed to the newspaper, read:

"I feel newspaperboy experience benefits young men throughout life. Obviously, a newspaperboy learns a lesson in the value of money; what is meant by working and earning money based upon one's physical efforts. The newspaperboy also learns the meaning of the word 'responsibility' by delivering the newspapers on time every day, making the collections regularly, keeping accurate records, and handling money properly.

"Even more important, I believe that the newspaperboy experience exposes the young man to what we call 'human nature' and makes him aware of the interdependence of individuals in our society. Simply stated, both the subscriber and the newspaper depend upon the newspaperboy to do his job correctly and the newspaperboy depends upon both of the others to reward him for a job well done. In later life we find that individual success is rarely attained independently. In the operation of a newspaper route as in life itself, the goal is achieved through the active interdependence of many individuals. I am proud and thankful to have been a newspaperboy in my formative years."

Nixon Wants Realistic Latin Program

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Richard M. Nixon called Monday for "an action program of realistic dimension" in Latin America.

The Johnson administration, Nixon said in a statement, has "clearly shown its unwillingness and inability to give our neighbors priority status and effective aid which they deserve."

The statement was issued from a borrowed beach house at Key Biscayne where Nixon has been vacationing and holding campaign strategy sessions.

Nixon urged that a crash program be launched to complete a planned highway system through the interior of the Latin American continent. A goal should be completion within five years, he said, and all available resources should be marshaled to meet the deadline.

"Of course, this would not solve all the problems immediately or automatically," he said. "But the opening of the heartland of South America will have an immense effect economically and will open more doors to development for our neighbors."

The Republican presidential candidate, moving into the home stretch of his campaign, scheduled public appearances today in four states.

Nixon was set for rallies in Miami, Greensboro, N.C., and Knoxville, Tenn. Then, finally, he will get an after-dark airport welcome at Kansas City, where three more speeches are on tap for Wednesday.

The candidate, who spent three days on Key Biscayne making plans for his campaign windup, has said that he'll stage a "three-week blitz" aimed at increasing the momentum of his campaign.

Nixon, at least during the final two weeks before election, is expected to concentrate exclusively on personal appearances in the seven states with the most voters: New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Texas, and California.

In addition, he will be stepping up his appearances on nationwide television and radio.

Nixon issued a statement Monday criticizing the Democratic administration's handling of Latin America and proposing a "sweeping re-evaluation" of the seven-year-old Alliance for Progress, which he said was too

Claims He Is Totally Happy Man, Which Is a Rare Animal Indeed

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) - You hardly ever meet a totally happy man anymore, but Trevor Howard says he's one.

"I have no ambition except to be happy - happy enough not to need any other goal," said Howard, who at 52 is rated as one of Britain's top actors.

A slender forthright man with sea green eyes, ruddy cheeks and sandy-reddish hair, Howard is allergic to stuffy people, refuses to endure boredom, and enjoys a bit of larking when he isn't working. Having completed his 49th and 50th films recently - "The Charge of the Light Brigade" and "The Battle of Britain" - he was in merry mood during a recent visit here.

"I was the original rebel," he remarked, "but being alone at it, I wasn't able to win the battle. So now I've got the name of just being a hell raiser. After Errol Flynn left, I became No. 1."

Son of a British shipper, he spent five years of his childhood in Ceylon, disappointed his family when he chose to be an actor rather than a soldier. However, as a paratrooper officer in World War II, he won the Military Cross for gallantry.

Apollo Past One-Third Mark But All Three of Astronauts Have Colds

By JIM STROTTHMAN
Ap Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Apollo 7's astronauts sped past the one-third distance mark today with all three pilots battling colds for the first time and concerned about stuffed-up ears that may be painful on re-entry.

Meanwhile, with the majority of their mission goals already achieved, astronauts Walter M. Schirra Jr., Donn F. Elisele and Walter Cunningham planned another spaceship-to-earth telecast today of the Wally, Walt and Donn Show.

In the first seven-minute broadcast Monday when Navy Capt. Schirra delighted millions of home viewers with a sign greeting them from "The lovely Apollo room high atop everything."

"It appears that at least Donn Elisele and Walter Schirra have bona fide colds," Dr. John Zieglschmid astronaut flight surgeon, said today, "and there's a slight question in my mind as to whether Walt Cunningham just has a few symptoms such as a little bit of snifles and maybe a slight nasal discharge or whether he has a full blown cold syndrome."

There was no reason to believe the problem would force the mission to be ended sooner than the 11 days planned, he added.

Schirra, who has been bothered by a cold since his second day in space, "is about holding his own on his ears," Cunningham reported in a volunteered medical report to ground control.

Militants Seize College Classroom

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) - A dozen members of the Black Students Union, who seized a classroom building at the University of California campus here, withdrew when amnesty and all but one of their eight demands were promised.

The students, charging racism on the campus, held control of North Hall for 9 1/2 hours Monday after chain-locking the doors at dawn. More than 80 classes were canceled as a result.

Chairs and tables were piled into barricades inside the building. It houses the university's computer equipment and classrooms.

Administrative officials were allowed to enter the building but city police remained off the campus.

No damage to equipment was reported, Dean of Students Lyle G. Reynolds said by keeping law enforcement officers out "we saved $30 million worth of computer equipment."

The group's eighth demand - denied by Chancellor Vernon Cheadle - was that two members of the athletic staff be fired. They are Jack Curtice, head football coach, and Art Gallon, supervisor of the athletic department.

Granted were demands for development of a college of black studies and a graduate program in Afro-American studies, establishment of a commission to investigate racism, more Negro personnel in top administrative positions, Negro coaches, a Negro woman counselor for the educational opportunities program and cessation of alleged harassment of those who signed a petition on these subjects two weeks ago.

The Santa Barbara campus has about 200 Negroes among 12,000 students.

Howard's deceptive skill at his trade won him fame in such films as "Brief Encounter," "The Third Man" and "Mutiny on the Bounty."

"I only do the things I want," he said. "A man's a Mongolian idiot to live any other way. What's the good of stacking money away if you can't take it with you."

"I believe life is for laughs. If you've got laughs, you've got friends, and if you have friends you have loyalty, no matter where in the world you are - and, hell, what more do you want?"

Howard has an airy manner toward his profession that cloaks his own high standards of craftsmanship. He is repelled by highbrow phrases and pretentious attitudes.

"We don't have the Method School of acting in England," he said. We simply read the script, let it seep in, then go put on whiskers - and do it.

"Character roles, particularly if they are loud, boisterous characters, are easy to play. The subtle roles are the hard ones."

"Saints are very hard to play. But nobody wants to see a saint anyway. People are bored sideways with saints."

If he weren't an actor, Howard would like to be an explorer.

He is interested in animal conservation, particularly African elephants which he feels are nobler and gentler than people.

HHH Keeps Up Attack on Nixon

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) -

Hubert H. Humphrey, renewing his criticism of Richard M. Nixon's refusal to debate him, says there is a new Nixon doll on the market: "You just wind it up and then it hides."

Speaking before an enthusiastic audience of 10,000 partisans in Evansville, Ind., Monday night, the Democratic presidential nominee said that his efforts to get Nixon to debate remind him of pheasant hunting, in which he said one sometimes has to kick a bush to get the bird to come out.

"I'm going to kick his bush," Humphrey said, adding that he looks forward to a debate because "I'm a pretty good shot at a moving target."

He spoke to a $10-a-plate fund-raising dinner. Humphrey arrived in Kansas City around midnight and faces a busy half-day of campaigning including a downtown rally, a television session and a question period at a high school. Despite the late hour he was greeted by hands and several hundred cheering college students, both at the airport and his hotel.

Third-party candidate George C. Wallace accepted Humphrey's offer to debate if Nixon also accepts. Wallace said he would pay his share if the debate is held.

Humphrey has offered to pay the cost of the debate and has reserved one hour on CBS television Sunday night.

Nixon, who is against a three-way debate was not heard from and Humphrey set a deadline of 5 p.m. today for acceptance.

Meanwhile, the National Press Club proposed a Nixon-Humphrey debate that it said could be nationally televised as a news event and skirt the equal time regulations. Neither candidate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The state Highway Department opened today a 19.2 mile section of Interstate 30 between Malvern and Arkadelphia.

The opening of the section came without ceremony as Highway Department crews removed barriers from the interstate link.

The new link brings the total number of Interstate 30 miles open to traffic to 107.48, leaving 35 miles of the route yet to be opened.

Speed limit on the new section will be 50 miles per hour while some final construction is under way in the next few weeks, but when the construction is completed the speed limit will be increased to the usual 70 m.p.h.

Prisoners Refuse to Work or Move and 24 Struck by Birdshot

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) - Prison guards fired eight shotgun blasts into a group of 75 inmates Monday, wounding 24, after the convicts refused to work in the prison fields unless some institution policies are changed.

Supt. Victor C. Urban defended the use of gunfire as a reasonable tactic under the circumstances. Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller called for a full investigation.

All but one of the 24 prisoners who were wounded were taken to the hospital infirmary. Urban said Herman Goad, 30, of Natchez, Miss., was struck in the eye by birdshot and taken to a Little Rock hospital.

Urban said about 100 prisoners refused to work Monday morning but that about 22 changed their minds and went to work.

He said Gary Haydis, an associate superintendent, fired the first shot.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) -

Hecklers attempted to drown out George C. Wallace Monday night and the American Independent party presidential candidate reacted with a display of anger.

"Why don't you young punks just get out of the auditorium?" he asked at one point during his speech. Another time the former amateur boxer belligerently invited a heckler to "come on up here."

Normally Wallace is content to taunt hecklers with such lines as "what you need is a good haircut." He has rarely, if ever, called them punks.

The hecklers, a few hundred in a pro-Wallace crowd of about 8,000 included a new type who have been showing up lately at Wallace rallies.

They were in a group who held Wallace placards and tried to drown out the speaker with loud chants of "We Want Wallace."

Wallace turned from the lectern in the San Diego Sports Arena and walked over to whisper to one of his security guards, apparently asking him what the hecklers were chanting. He went back to the podium and said, "If you're really for me, just sit down and let me finish my speech."

To finish it, he had to shout over a microphone system above the strident voices of the hecklers who were dressed in

Battleship Hammers Small Isle

SAIGON (AP) - The battleship New Jersey steamed farther up the North Vietnamese coast than ever before Monday and blew part of a small island off the map, the U.S. Command reported.

The target for the 56,000-ton New Jersey, the only active battleship in the world, was three-square-mile Hon Mat Island, 14 miles south of the 19th parallel limit for U.S. bombers and warships. Antiaircraft batteries on the island have been attacking American bombers and rescue helicopters.

For 30 minutes the New Jersey's 16-inch guns hurled 2,700-pound shells into the island and shells so powerful they can penetrate 30 feet of reinforced concrete. An aerial spotter said the battleship wiped out one anti-aircraft battery and took away a large slice of the island itself.

Over South Vietnam, about 100 of America's heaviest bombers, the Air Force B52s, dropped 3,000 tons of bombs around four key provincial capitals in efforts to crush enemy buildups threatening them.

Although virtually no significant ground action was reported, the naval and air bombardments were some of the most awesome of the war.

South Vietnamese Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh said the B52s "have critically frightened the enemy, exposed his staging areas, offered no more safe place for big troops massing. Even to establish a small installation security area is already a big problem."

Minh, commander of government forces defending Saigon, announced the start of a new government psychological warfare campaign aimed at getting more Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops and political workers to defect.

Another government spokesman said more propaganda leaflets will be distributed "calling on the Communist cadres to rally to the government," and government cadres will be sent to remote villages to seek the support of people in the countryside.

Wave after wave of B52 bombers from bases in Guam, Okinawa and Thailand attacked enemy troop concentrations and base camps Monday and today around Quang Ngai City, on the coastal lowlands; Pleiku, the capital of the Central Highlands; Tay Ninh, northwest of Saigon near the Cambodian border; and Can Tho, the biggest city in the Mekong Delta.

South Vietnamese military headquarters announced that B52 strikes killed 36 North Vietnamese troops west of Quang Ngai Monday, shortly after the enemy sent 17 rounds of big rockets slamming into the city and a nearby government infantry regiment. Four civilians and four soldiers were killed.

The air campaign against the movement of war supplies from North Vietnam into South Vietnam continued with American fighter-bombers flying 118 missions over the North Monday and pilots reporting at least 21 supply boats, 12 trucks and seven railroad cars destroyed or damaged.

U.S. headquarters announced the loss of a Navy A6 Intruder Sunday 24 miles southeast of Vinh and said the two crewmen are missing. It was the 907th American warplane announced lost in combat over North Vietnam.

Announcing the start of the new psychological war campaign, Gen. Minh said allied pressure and particularly the attacks of the B52s had "critically frightened the enemy" and caused "an unprecedented amount of casualties."
